Yes, under you're your contract the publisher can give notice of termination 30 days after the Due Date. You don't want to terminate with Ned presumably, but I can draft something like 15 days grace, as you suggest.

Norman
I would approve it. Only problem is the Date. I propose you'll tell him we cannot write different date than the one we get from St. Martin. But let's add to it (to July 30) the remark that a delay of up to 15 days will not be related to as breaching the contract. Something like this we have I believe from the Publisher as well. Don't we?
